COURSE DESCRIPTION

Course Content

This course will introduce the student to the critical issues and major artistic developments of art since 1945. Examining major works of art and the artistic contributions of particular artists who revolutionized art during the second half of the twentieth century, the student will gain a greater understanding of artistic trends and innovations that led aesthetic production in new directions during this period. Among the critical issues that will be considered are the new materials of art, the re-assessment of the art object, intersections of art and life, the shifting contexts of art, the concepts of “modernism” and “postmodernism,” the re-definition of “Art,” the changing role of the artist, the active spectator, and the politicization of art. Students will examine and discuss major artworks and related concepts in light of artist statements, writings by art critics, and prevalent theories of art. The course objective is to provide the student with the historical framework and theoretical tools needed to critically evaluate mid-to-late twentieth century art and the more recent art of the emerging twenty-first century.

CAUTIONARY NOTE: Because many contemporary artists address issues of gender, race, class, religion, sexuality, violence, and politics, as well as different conceptions of beauty, some material viewed and discussed in this course is of a sensitive nature. Keep in mind that one goal of much contemporary art is to challenge viewers to see things from different perspectives or to confront issues that may be uncomfortable, controversial, and / or offensive. Be prepared to encounter and understand the motivations behind these expressions. You are not expected to like all the works you will encounter, but you will be expected to discuss these challenging works and to engage with the difficult issues and topics they raise in a critical and respectful manner. The goal is for you to understand the artists' reasons for creating these works and their art historical significance.

BLACKBOARD

The Blackboard page for this course is an essential component of this class. In it you will find learning modules, readings, course documents (online lectures, study guides, assignment guidelines, etc.), discussion boards, quizzes, exam images, and important announcements.

Because of Blackboard's significance to the course, it is very important that you familiarize yourself with the website immediately and test that you have the technology necessary to run the course. Please email me and tech support immediately if you have any issues.

BE SURE TO CHECK BLACKBOARD OFTEN – ESPECIALLY BEFORE COMING TO CLASS. You are responsible for all information posted on Blackboard.

REQUIRED TEXTS

Required readings will be available as either a pdf or a link on Blackboard.

MASON EMAIL

MasonLIVE is the required email address for all GMU correspondence. Students must check their GMU email messages on a daily basis for course announcements, which may include reminders, revisions, and updates. Be sure to clear your inbox so that you are not over quota. If you rely on another email account, you should consider forwarding your MasonLIVE emails to the account you check most often. You are responsible for all information that is emailed.

Important Notes on Email

Be sure to include your name, class, and section. I will make every effort to respond in a timely manner. You can expect a reply within 1-2 days. If you have not heard back after 48 hours, please resend.

Before emailing, be sure that you are not inquiring about any of the following:

- ☐ Information that is easily found in the syllabus, textbook, Blackboard, or any other course document. While I am happy to clarify or elaborate on specific issues, I cannot be expected to look up information that has already been provided and is easily accessible.
- ☐ Excusing an absence. You have one online day and two free absences to deal with any emergency situation. In the case of extenuating circumstances, they must be addressed in person. Refer to the section on attendance for details.
- ☐ What you missed in class the day you were absent. It is your responsibility to be in class and to contact a classmate for notes and any other information you missed during your absence, regardless of the reason. Once you have reviewed their materials carefully, we can discuss any questions or concerns you may have about the information you missed.
- ☐ To define terms, explain concepts, or re-teach information delivered in class. I am happy to clarify and discuss any course material that is unclear after the student has taken the initial step to engage the material.

I am always happy to assist students with any difficult course material, but email is not always the most effective means of teaching or clarifying course content. If you are unclear about an idea covered in the course, first review your notes and any other documents on that topic (online lectures, readings, handouts, etc.), and then reach out to your peers in the Study Room and/or formulate a focused question that you can raise in class, email the instructor, or discuss in person.

 Email messages containing any of these requests will not receive a reply.

CLASS PARTICIPATION

Your final class participation grade will be calculated according to: (1) your attendance; (2) completion of any in-class, online and take-home assignments; and (3) contribution to formal and informal class discussions, held both in-class and online. Other situations in which you demonstrate your engagement with the course will also be considered (for example: informal discussions with the professor, posting to the Art Talk discussion board, actively participating in the online Study Center, or engaging the material in ways that exceed course requirements).

> ATTENDANCE

*The majority of the course content will be presented in the class lectures. The readings supplement the lecture material, providing critical insight on the topics under evaluation. Therefore, in order to be successful in this course, you must attend class regularly, take good notes, and come prepared to discuss the assigned readings and online resources, as well as, the material presented in class. In addition to the course content, there may also be important announcements and reminders issued in class for which every student will be held responsible, whether they were in attendance or not.

Attending Class

- An attendance sheet will be placed at the front of the classroom each day we meet – it is YOUR RESPONSIBILITY to make sure you sign it before class starts. If your signature is not on the sheet, you will be marked absent; if you sign it after class, you will be marked late.
- Attendance does not simply mean showing up to class.
*Attendance is defined as arriving on time, attending the entire class period, paying attention to the lecture, and being courteous.
- Habitual tardiness, early departures, and disruptive entrances will not be tolerated. Plan your schedule accordingly.

Absences

- In addition to the Thursday you work from home, you are allowed two free absences without consequence. This is a total of three days, in addition to university holidays.
- The free absences are offered to assist with any emergency situation that may arise. Treat these as “excused absences” and reserve them for unexpected situations. There will be no excused absences. There will be no need to email informing me of your absence, explaining why you didn’t attend class, or inquiring about having an absence excused.
- In the case of extenuating circumstances that require a student to miss more than 4 days of class time, all absences must be explained in a signed and dated letter from a physician, the dean, or other comparable authorizing agent. Only under these conditions will I consider re-evaluating your grade. Assignments for other classes, travel plans, and most employment situations are not excusable. For these cases, you may apply the free absence described above. Schedule your time accordingly.
- If you must miss class, it is your responsibility to get notes, handouts, and any important announcements from another student.

> ASSIGNMENTS

Occasionally there may be an in-class, take-home or online assignment to complete. These assignments may take the form of group work, answering a series of questions, a “pop quiz,” a open-note quiz, etc. These assignments are designed to facilitate student learning and to assess the student’s level of comprehension.

- In-class assignments that are missed because of an absence (for any reason) cannot be made up.
- At-home (not online) assignments must be typed and submitted in class as a hard copy on the day it is due, unless assignment guidelines indicate another form of submission.
- Students are expected to keep up with the course material by reading and completing any preliminary assignments before in-class lectures, taking good notes, and reviewing the notes before the next class session. If it becomes clear that students are not fully prepared for class, students will be quizzed and/or called upon to answer questions about the material under review.

> CLASSDISCUSSION

Class discussion takes a variety of forms – formal and informal, in-class and online.

Formal Discussions will be graded as an individual assignment. It may be a discussion board that is set up on Blackboard to which all students must contribute; or it may be an in-class discussion in which all students must participate. These in-class discussions may take place within small groups or with the whole class. Because discussions require group participation, they cannot be made up. Be sure to attend class and do not miss any online discussions.

Informal Chats are any discussions that happen in a more improvised manner and are not graded as an individual assignment, but are still taken into consideration when evaluating an individual student’s overall participation grade. In class, these informal discussions occur in response to a question posed by the professor or by another student. Online, it can be a post to the Art Talk board, participation in the Study Center, a response to another student’s informal post, or other non-required online activity.

Informal Discussion Boards

Two discussion boards will be set up for students to interact as they study (Study Center) and to expand their knowledge of the course material in more self-directed ways (Art Talk). More information will be provided in class and on Blackboard.

Class discussion grades will be assessed according to the quality of the student's contribution to the discussion, taking into consideration whether the student raises substantial questions about the material, answers questions in a critical manner, and initiates further discussion. Discussions with the professor outside of class will also be assessed in this manner and considered when evaluating class participation.

 Please note that each student's class participation grade will also take into account how attentive and respectful the student is while others are speaking, as well as how respectful and appropriate a student's online postings are. Please be aware that innocent remarks can be easily misconstrued. Sarcasm and humor can be easily taken out of context. When communicating, please be positive and diplomatic.

> GRADING CLASS PARTICIPATION

The GMU catalogue states: "Students are expected to attend the class periods of the courses for which they register...instructors may use absence, tardiness, or early departure as de facto evidence of non-participation."

The class participation grade will take into account the student's attendance, performance on assignments, contributions to discussions, and the overall level of commitment and engagement with the course. Therefore, a student's class participation grade will drop considerably if he or she is disrespectful or disruptive to the learning environment we create in both the virtual and physical classrooms.

- ☐ All students will start with a grade of "90" which reflects that the student has met the expectations for class participation (regular attendance, being on time, keeping up with the readings, completing assignments successfully, paying attention, and participating in group activities).
- ☐ An "A" will be given to any student participating at an exceptional level (having perfect attendance, playing a critical role in class discussions, and demonstrating a significant engagement with the course).
- ☐ A grade of "B-" or lower will be issued according to the severity of any of the following situations:
 - Being unprepared for class
 - Disrupting lecture or discussion with questions answered in the study guide, textbook, or lecture you missed
 - Posting inappropriate messages directed to other classmates or to the instructor
 - Missing more than one class
 - Excessive tardiness or early departures
 - Missing a test or failing to submit an assignment
 - Disruptive behavior of any kind (see section on classroom etiquette below)

> CLASSROOM ETIQUETTE

NO Electronic Devices in the Classroom

- Computers, tablets, phones, and all other electronic devices (ipods, recorders...) must be OFF and stored out of sight.

A visible or noisy device is disruptive and will be subject to the terms of disruptive classroom behavior as stated below.

Disruptive Behavior

We are all responsible for maintaining a respectful and courteous classroom atmosphere. There is no excuse for disruptive behavior of any kind.

I do not take kindly to behavior that is discourteous and which inhibits others from learning.

Disruptive behavior includes:

- (1) Violations of the in-class electronics regulation as stated above.
- (2) Distracting physical behavior in the classroom.
For example: sleeping, talking while someone else is speaking (the professor or a student), wandering in and out of class, working on unrelated assignments, gesturing inappropriately, approaching the front of the classroom during lecture, etc.
- (3) Discourteous or offensive language and behavior in the classroom or online.

In short, any behavior that is distracting or offensive to the professor or to your fellow classmates is disruptive and compromises the learning environment.

Consequences for Disrupting the Learning Environment

All disruptions – with or without warning – will result in lowering of the overall class participation grade

- If lecture must be interrupted to remind a student to behave appropriately, the grade will drop significantly
- In the case of extreme or recurring disruptions, the student will not be allowed to remain in the class and/or the final course grade will be negatively affected

 The consequences will reflect the severity and frequency of the disruption.*

WEEKLY QUIZZES

The purpose of the online quizzes is to familiarize students with the language of the exams and to allow students an opportunity to review the material before continuing on to the next topic. The content for the quiz will come from the same sources as the exams (see the section on exams below).

- ☐ Quizzes will be given as reviews of important topics and concepts. Starting on week 2, they will usually take place weekly, except on week 4 (when we only meet Tuesday) and the week of Exam 1. Please check the course lecture schedule for dates and topics. There are eleven quizzes in total.
- ☐ The quizzes will be primarily multiple-choice, open-book and submitted online. They will be timed, may only be submitted once, and will be accessible for a limited amount of time. The timeframe for each quiz is posted on the lecture schedule and will also be posted on Blackboard. Students will receive their grades immediately, and once the quiz due date passes, students can review their answers before the exam.
- ☐ All quizzes are required, and because they are designed to assess the material in a timely manner, make-up quizzes will not be given. Failure to take a quiz will result in a grade of "0," but the two lowest quiz grades will be dropped.

Staying on top of the material in this way, will cut down on exam study time and will provide you with better comprehension of the course material, since the course material builds on itself as we progress through the semester. These assessments will also help you get a sense of how you are performing in the class while you can still make adjustments.

EXAMS

- Exams will be taken in class. Be sure to check the course lecture schedule for the dates.
- Exams are non-cumulative and will consist of a combination of any of the following: slide identification, multiple choice, fill-in-the-blank, matching, short answer, term definitions and/or short essay.
- Questions will be drawn from both in-class and online materials, including: lectures, handouts, discussions, readings, multimedia resources, and assignments. Details will be provided closer to exam time.
- Study guides with key terms and image lists will be available for each lecture and posted on Blackboard. Students must print the study guide pertaining to that day's lecture and bring it to class with them, since much of the course material (including terms and images) will not be found in the readings.
- All exams are required. Failure to take a scheduled exam will result in a grade of "0" for that exam. MAKE-UPS WILL NOT BE GIVEN, except in emergency situations and at my discretion. If you miss an exam for an excusable reason, you must inform me PRIOR to the exam or, in an emergency, no later than the next day. Refer to the section on attendance for information on excusing an absence. Only under those conditions will I consider administering a make-up examination. Without legitimate documentation even those excuses will not be reason for making up the missed exam. Assignments for other classes, travel plans, and most employment situations are not acceptable excuses. Schedule your time accordingly.

 If you have any questions about the exams or how to study, please see me or my assistant well in advance of the first exam. I am happy to suggest tips and strategies for succeeding in an art history class and to help any student implement more effective study habits. Also, use the Study Center discussion board to set up study groups – this is a very effective way of studying for these exams.

PRESENTATION

For this assignment, students will research and present the work of a contemporary artist in the form of an in-class presentation that they will then post to Blackboard. Students will describe the work and contextualize it within the framework of that week's lecture topic, evaluating it in line with the practices and issues of contemporary art that are under evaluation. The project presents the student with an opportunity to explore an artist that interests them, while putting into practice the skills and knowledge acquired in class. It is also an exercise for strengthening communication skills since the student will synthesize and present the material in a combination of visual, written and spoken language to address a general audience. In addition, it presents the class with an occasion to learn about recent art in a broader global context. More detailed information about the project will be provided on a separate handout.

CREATIVE WRITING ASSIGNMENT

Students will work on an assignment, due at semester's end, that requires them to assess the course material as a whole and then develop either a work of art or an exhibition based on a few key elements of their choosing. The final product will be either an actual work of art accompanied by a 1-2 page artist statement, a 2-3 page proposal for a work of art, or a 2-3 page exhibition proposal. Detailed project information will be provided in a separate document later in the semester.

LATE SUBMISSIONS

- Unexcused absences are not acceptable excuses for the late submission of any assignment.
- E-mailed assignments will not be accepted, unless an assignment clearly asks for digital submission.

Points will be deducted for lateness – half a letter grade (5 points) for each calendar day your assignment is late.

- No assignment will be accepted after being five days late and a grade of "0" will be issued.

If you require an extension for an assignment, you must discuss your situation with me well BEFORE the due date in the event that you are not granted the extension.

 The late policy and extensions do not apply to quizzes, exams, presentations, or discussions, which will only be accepted the day they are due. After the due date, a grade of '0' will be assigned.

ENGLISH AS A SECOND LANGUAGE

Assignments must be written in good standard English. If English is not your first language, please see me so we can discuss a strategy to help you succeed in this course. Email correspondence will not suffice; you must come speak with me. Also, do not wait until a few days (or the night before) the exam date or assignment deadline to address this; you will not have enough time to remedy the situation.

Please contact the following centers for assistance. But be sure to plan in advance; they are very busy, especially as the semester comes near its end.

ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Each student is responsible for observing academic integrity with regard to all work assigned in this course. It is the student's responsibility to familiarize herself/himself with GMU's Honor Code as outlined in the university's catalogue: (<http://catalog.gmu.edu/content.php?catoid=5&navoid=410&bc=1>). Neither plagiarism (presenting someone else's words or ideas as your own) nor cheating will be tolerated. Also refer to <http://academicintegrity.gmu.edu/>

STUDENTS NEEDING ACCOMODATIONS

Accommodations will be made for students with documented disabilities, in accordance with law and university policies. Students requiring accommodations must register with the Office of Disability Services (ODS) -- (703) 993-2474, <http://ods.gmu.edu> -- to self-identify their needs and attain necessary documentation. After meeting with the Coordinator, please arrange a meeting with me well in advance of the first exam or the class during which special accommodations will be required. It is your responsibility to remind me in advance of each exam that you are in need of specific accommodations.

OPPORTUNITIES TO SEE AND LEARN ABOUT CONTEMPORARY ART

There are many opportunities on campus, in the metro DC area, and within driving distance for you to explore contemporary art and gain a richer understanding. Please visit the Blackboard link to events, exhibitions, and public works available to you right now! Take advantage of these opportunities and to your proximity to cities hosting much contemporary art (DC, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore). Listening to lectures and viewing contemporary art as you study it will benefit you greatly. It will allow you to “practice” what we are learning in class, reinforcing the ideas and helping you clarify them.

I will update these listings as the semester progresses. Feel free to add suggestions of your own!

Of note are two GMU-sponsored activities that you will want to check out:

- o VISUAL VOICES a lecture series on contemporary art, held on campus. For the list of speakers, dates, location, and more information visit: <http://soa.gmu.edu/visualvoices/>

- o ARTS BUS– monthly day-trips to NYC

For dates, prices, and more information visit: <http://artsbus.gmu.edu>
