

Want to share your opinions to help other teens?

We are looking for teens aged 12-17 and parents of teens to take part in separate focus groups.

Who are we?

Fairfax Consortium for Evidence-Based Practice: A Training Collaborative, a partnership between GMU's Department of Psychology, Healthy Minds Fairfax, and INOVA.

What do we do?

We offer training to therapists in the community who are providing mental health treatment to children, adolescents, and families in need. Our goal is to provide therapists with training in mental health treatments that have been tested in research studies and shown to make teenagers better.

How can you share your opinions and help?

We want to get your opinion about one of the evidence-based treatment programs that we have developed for teenagers who are experiencing depression, anxiety, or behavioral difficulties, and their families. This treatment program has therapy sessions for teenagers, parents, and the family.

Where and When?

Wednesday, 7/25/2018, 7:00 – 8:00

Located in Suite 301 of 10340 Democracy Lane (one floor up!)

Plus complimentary pizza!

Interested?

Please email fairfax.consortium@gmail.com

Formed in partnership with GMU's Department of Psychology, Healthy Minds Fairfax and INOVA.

Expanding the capacity of Fairfax County's public and private mental health treatment community to offer evidence-based behavioral health treatment to children, youth and families.

