The Honor Code at George Mason University: To promote a stronger sense of mutual responsibility, respect, trust, and fairness among all members of the George Mason University community and with the desire for greater academic and personal achievement, we, the student members of the University Community have set forth this: Student members of the George Mason University community pledge not to cheat, plagiarize, steal, and/or lie in matters related to academic work.

OBJECTIVES

- See History as a tool to understand the present, also called historical perspective.
- To understand how change occurred (and is occurring) in the evolution of human society.
- To equip the student with tools necessary to read critically and to recognize valid analysis.
- To develop skills to competently access and assess sources of information.

Attention: If you are a student with an identified learning pattern and you need academic accommodations contact the Office of Disability Resources at 703.993.2474. All academic accommodations must be arranged through that office.

MATERIALS

Lecture The information in lecture is the Standard Historical Narrative. This historical narrative can be found in ANY Western Civilization textbook and reputable online encyclopedias (e.g. Britannica, Columbia, Wikipedia [most times]).

Readings and Viewing Lectures are supplemented with articles and online documentaries. These are assigned in Take Home Exercises (THX). The articles are sourced from JSTOR. The documentaries are sourced from Fenwick Library and Youtube. Our work with the articles is geared to: develop critical reading skills; learn how to handle advanced scholarship; and provide examples of the analytical forms. Our work with the documentaries is to develop skills to competently assess sources of information. Additionally, we seek to recognize the patterns of cause and effect described in lecture in other sources of historical information so as to train the eye to an historical perspective.

COURSEWORK

TESTS There will be 3 tests at 50 points each. Additional points are available by incorporating material from assigned articles. (possible points 100+)

Tests focus upon lecture material. The inclusion of article content is optional

The test is cumulative, closed note, and copies of the articles are not allowed during testing.

All answers must be written in complete sentences.

TESTING SCHEDULE: Test 1 18 October

Test 2 29 November

Test 3 is an opportunity to replace your lower test score.

TAKE-HOME EXERCISES (THX) There will be at least 10 THX at 24+ points each (available points = 240+).

A cluster of articles and a documentary set with tasks will be made available on Fridays through email and/or Blackboard.

Completed work is due the following Tuesday. No other submission arrangement will be accepted.

Hand in your completed THX when you turn in your quiz.

QUIZZES There will be 6 quizzes at 15 points each (points possible = 90).

Tuesday classes will begin (15 minutes) with a quiz. If you miss the beginning of class then you forfeit the opportunity to try for the points attached to the quiz. In other words, no “make-up” will be provided.

PARAGRAPH PAGES There will be at least 6 paragraph exercises at 10+ points each (total available points = 60+ points).

An approximate total of 490+ points will be made available at an average flow rate of about 40 points each week.

The course is designed to allow for the learning curve of the individual student. A means to correct for low grades or the forfeit of a THX or a missed quiz has been accommodated in the volume of points available each week. If you miss turning in a THX or taking a quiz, you make up the points by doing a better job on the next THX and quiz.

RULES FOR SUBMISSION OF THX and the Paragraph pages

A hardcopy of your THX and Paragraph Page must be submitted by you (or by a friend or a family member who is nice enough to turn it in for you). I do not accept work placed in my department box or sent by email.

After you complete the quiz scheduled for each Tuesday turn in your THX with your quiz. Work submitted after class or during office hours results in a 5 point deduction.

THE GRADE

The bar is set at 320 points. Your final grade is calculated by dividing the points you earn by 320.

So, if you earn 240 points by the end of the semester [ $240 / 320 = 75$ ] you will have a final grade of 75, a C.

If you want a C by the end of the semester that means you need to earn at least 16 points out of each weekly THX and quiz.

At the end of the semester whatever graded work I am holding after 6 December will be added up and subtracted from your final grade. Thursday 6 December is the last day of class

Each student is responsible for keeping track of his/her own points and totals. I strongly encourage students to collect and save all of their work. I provide a list of your recorded scores at midterm. Other than that list, I will not provide points upon request.

Grading Rubric

- All answers must be written in sentence form. Incomplete sentences, bullet-point and/or slashed constructions = 0.
- Fallacies: e.g. hypothetical constructs, contradiction, and hyperbolic assertions = 0
- Citation is required when using ideas or phrasing from the work of others. No recognition = 0

ABSENCES

The student is responsible for acquiring missed notes from a class-mate. I do not provide lecture notes.

Only absences on scheduled Test days present an opportunity for a make-up.

To schedule a “make-up” test some form of official documentation must be submitted to confirm the validity of the absence.

The documentation reestablishes your option on the test.

An email announcing an absence does not qualify as valid documentation nor does a note from a parent.

The student is responsible for initiating the discussion with the instructor to arrange for a make-up session.

RULES FOR COMPOSITION

On-line or hardcopy reference materials (such as encyclopedias, biographical dictionaries, web-site quick references, textbooks, enthusiast sites, course materials from other universities, exam-prep summaries, etc.) are not acceptable as sources for research compositions. The use of valid sources and the proper citation of those sources is required. Peer reviewed research is the convention. Direct quotation is a verbatim transcription (a word for word copy) of one or more words. A quote always requires quotation marks and citation. To alter one word of a quote transforms the quotation into a paraphrase. To paraphrase something is to restate the ideas expressed by the author of a source. In other words, to paraphrase is to quote indirectly. Therefore paraphrased material always requires citation, however does not always require quotation marks.

PLAGIARISM: To plagiarize is to copy and attempt to present as one’s own the ideas, phrasing, and/or order of the work of someone other than one’s self. It is in the act of not presenting citation that you make the “attempt to present” the words as yours.

FALSE CITATION is to present a citation to a source that is in fact not the actual source of the content in the essay. False citation is a particularly egregious form of plagiarism.
