Hi All - Welcome to ARTH 374. I am thrilled to be teaching my favorite subject to you all this semester - contemporary American and European art history. I hope we'll develop a rich learning community through our exploration of exciting trends in art including: artists reconsidering history, artists creating art as a social space, and artists recasting former art-making modes. It's going to be an exciting semester. In order to begin, we need to introduce the course structure and methods.

Blackboard
All course documents (Syllabus, Schedule, PowerPoints, Study Guides, and Research Paper Project Instructions) are posted on Blackboard at http://blackboard.gmu.edu under this course listing. Please note that all posted materials on Blackboard are only for students enrolled in this ARTH 374-001 course; they cannot be duplicated, shared, posted, etc. They are covered by copyright laws. Also, all course work must be submitted through Blackboard for 2 reasons: 1) our course teaching assistant has access through Blackboard and 2) Blackboard allows for grading and comments within the system that you can access and these grades are then linked directly into the Blackboard gradebook. Any assignment not submitted through Blackboard will be automatically marked down by 20 points.

Course Description
We will explore major movements in contemporary art, examining how artists and their representative works engage issues such as institutional critique, demand for expanded representation and viewpoints, and the viewer's role. We will analyze the historical and social context surrounding recent art production in order to build fluency with core concepts and practices. Our textbooks' chronological unfolding of artistic, social, political, and theoretical issues will be augmented with PowerPoint presentations, videos, and written exercises. We will investigate one artwork created between 1980-2005 (experienced in-person, at a major museum, specifically for this class). This museum case study includes close visual analysis, research, and writing.
Course Goals

Our first goal is to develop our understanding and fluency with contemporary art, its theory and histories. Our second goal is to develop a case study analysis of one artwork and the scholarly writing on this artwork through a museum site visit, research and a synthesized paper that demonstrates your findings.

Course Expectations

1) We will read art historical writing and learn to assess its strengths and weaknesses.
2) We will gain and build research skills.
3) We will learn to identify, select, and analyze scholarly writing.
4) We will practice different forms of writing, with emphasis on analytical writing.
5) We will all work through the Blackboard site to access course materials.
6) We will build a learning community that values professional course behaviors such as respectful participation in course discussions, on time submission of work through Blackboard.
7) No late work will be accepted.
8) All assignments need to be submitted through Blackboard. No submissions will be accepted by email attachment - except in very extreme documented circumstances.

Methods

1) Readings, Video Lectures, PowerPoint presentations, and exercises.
2) Close analysis of assigned texts, which should be completed prior to the assigned date.
3) Assessments and a Research Paper project.
Communication
All students are required by the university to actively use and check their GMU e-mail account. I will communicate with the class using Blackboard and your GMU account of record. Please address questions via email, in office hours or by appointment. I will usually reply within 24 hours of receiving your message (Monday through Friday). Weekend messages will be addressed on Monday.

Etiquette
We will be respectful and constructive in our course interactions.

- It is your responsibility to keep track of your absences.

Tests (2 X 30% = 60% of grade)
Tests will assess your understanding of the core artists, artistic movements, concepts, and artistic strategies covered in the readings, lectures, and PowerPoints. Good notetaking during both reading before class and during class lectures will aid in good performance on these assessments. A study guide will be posted one week before each test. There are no make-ups for missed tests.

Museum Research Paper Project (40% of grade)
Your research paper will examine one artwork from a major museum collection (dated between 1980 and the present that engages one of the course Schedule). This project builds from five components posted on Blackboard under the Research Project Tab. The final paper will be a 5 page, well-researched, well-written, and thoughtful analysis of one artwork that you examined specifically for this class. I ask that you not revisit something that you have previously studied. This paper builds research skills and fluency in one core topic from the course. After close visual analysis and research, you will synthesize your findings and demonstrate that you understand your artwork’s historical, social, artistic, and political context and surveyed the scholarly writing about this artwork. No late papers will be accepted and they must be submitted via blackboard.

Each step of this assignment must be completed in order and on time.
1. Visit a the Hirshhorn or National Gallery and Select an artwork (dated between 1980-2005 that engages a topic from the Schedule). At the Museum, use your smartphone to check the GMU Library Catalog and GMU Library Online Databases like JSTOR and Worldcat to make sure that there are books and articles readily available on your artist/artwork. Take a selfie that includes your selected object in the image.

2. Complete two Questionnaires
   - 20 Questions for Formal Analysis - document on Blackboard
   - 20 Questions for Contextual Analysis - document on Blackboard

3. Review the Research Methods PowerPoints posted on Blackboard. These will guide you as you research your artwork and take notes from books and peer-reviewed journals. Fill out 3 Resource Analysis Forms. Select resources written by art historians targeting your artwork/object and topic. These books and articles are easily obtainable through the GMU Fenwick library and the GMU library online databases.
   - Research Analysis Form 1 – book by an art historian
   - Research Analysis Form 2 – article by an art historian
   - Research Analysis Form 3 - article by an art historian

4. Write a 5 page paper combining ½ page Formal Analysis, 1 page contextual analysis and a 3 ½ page focus topic engaging your artwork. Consider a free Writing Center consultation on your paper https://writingcenter.gmu.edu/.

5. Submit your 5 page paper on time via Blackboard

Participation
Together, we form a constructive learning community. Take hard copy notes on your reading. Please ask questions and offer constructive comments. If you need lengthy clarification, please try to see me during office hours. As part of a constructive learning community, we will discuss readings in class, so read assignments, be prepared, and participate actively. Please take hard copy notes on your reading and have them available during class meetings. Laptops, if necessary, must be used in the last row only to minimize distractions and effects on slide visibility. Misuse of laptops and smartphones (such as surfing, gaming, chat, texting) will result in forfeiting personal technology in the classroom. Do not engage in activities unrelated to class during class meetings.

Late or Missed Assignments Policy:
No late work is accepted. Do not miss your reader response paper or reading worksheets, assessments, and research project deadlines. There are VERY rare exceptions in the case of extreme medical or family emergency, but you must communicate with me beforehand and provide documentation demonstrating the extreme circumstance.

Academic Integrity : upholding academic Integrity:
- The integrity of the University community is affected by the individual choices made by each of us.
- Mason has an Honor Code with clear guidelines regarding academic integrity. Three fundamental and rather simple principles to follow at all times are that: (1) all work submitted be your own; (2) when using the work or ideas of others, including fellow students, give full credit through accurate citations; and (3) if you are uncertain about the ground rules on a particular assignment, ask for clarification. No grade is important enough to justify academic misconduct. Plagiarism means using the exact words, opinions, or factual information from another person without giving the person credit. Writers give credit through accepted documentation styles, such as parenthetical citation, footnotes, or endnotes. Paraphrased material must also be cited, using MLA or APA format. A simple listing of books or articles is not sufficient. Plagiarism is the equivalent of intellectual robbery and cannot be tolerated in the academic setting. If you have any doubts about what constitutes plagiarism, please see me.

Academic integrity is an essential part of a learning community. The GMU Academic Integrity Policy is very clear and will be enforced in this class. If you plagiarize or are caught cheating, you will be reported to the Honor Committee office. If you submit plagiarized work, it will receive an automatic zero and that zero will not count as an assignment that can be dropped in the course rubric since it is not your work and does not meet the assignment requirements.

For example, last semester I found students cutting and pasting answers into the reader response papers and assessments. If this happens, you will get an automatic 0. Weekly Assessments in this class are not open book. No outside resources can be used during a weekly assessment.

Please review the Mason Honor Code at http://oai.gmu.edu/. We are bound by the honor code and pledge not to lie, cheat, steal or plagiarize. For further clarification, please read the following in-depth explanation - https://cs.gmu.edu/resources/honor-code/statement-on-academic-integrity/

The Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990

- If you have a documented learning disability or other condition that may affect academic performance you should: 1) make sure this documentation is on file with Office of Disability Services (ODS) at 703-993-2474 (SUB I, Rm. 4205; http://ds.gmu.edu) to determine the accommodations you need; and 2) talk with me to discuss your accommodation needs by September 15. All academic accommodations must be arranged through that office.
