INTS 362  Social Justice/ Human Rights

Spring, 2019
(Mason Global Center 1320A, Friday, 10:30-1:10pm)

Learning Community Description

In this learning community students will consider the philosophical foundations of human rights, explore the interpretive difficulties relating to identifying what constitutes human rights abuses, and evaluate regional perspectives on human rights. Based on deeper understandings of these components of global human rights discourses, students will analyze institutions that strive to promote and enforce human rights standards including the United Nations system, regional human rights bodies, and domestic courts. We will also study various human rights issues such as genocide, torture, indigenous rights, the rights of persons with disabilities, labor rights, and women’s rights.

Student Learning Outcomes

- Develop deeper understanding of what international human rights are, where they come from, and their theoretical and practical significance (Competency: Global Understanding).
- Appreciate, respect, and value various perspectives on human rights and effectively communicate the importance of universal human rights standards both orally and in writing (Competency: Communication).
- Strengthen the abilities to identify key actors and institutions in the field of international human rights at the local, national and international levels, and to critically evaluate major instruments and provisions of international human rights law (Competency: Critical Thinking).
- Learn strategies for civic engagement and social change related to international human rights issues (Competency: Civic Engagement).

Requirements

I. Class Participation-15%

Throughout the semester, you will be expected and required to not just attend every class but to be fully engaged in every activity as an active learner. This ultimately means that you will be expected to come to class on time and fully prepared by completing all readings and assignments before class, raising well thought-out and intelligent questions during class, and participating in a positive way in class discussions and activities, among other things. In addition, a variety of in-class writings will also factor into your participation grade. If everyone fulfills this course requirement we will not only build a positive classroom environment but a true community of learners.

II. “I am a ? Rights Advocate” Presentation-15% (topic list given on Feb 01)

You will explore a human rights issue from a list of topics to be distributed on Feb 01. You will then present an analysis on that issue in the form of a 15 min presentation (at the beginning of each class), in which you will describe, as deeply as possible:
1. the theoretical and historical development of the issue;
2. the practical significance of the issue;
3. any relevant international instruments or legal cases;
4. how various actors including governments, international organizations and NGOs have responded to the issue; and
5. what needs to be done next in order to address this issue and how you and your fellow GMUers should respond to the issue, given adequate resources (you are asked to contact at least one of those actors and discuss the issue).

You will be expected to inform yourself about the issues you’re discussing by using and citing at least five scholarly sources, not including our readings, relevant to your topic.

You will create a presentation to share your research, findings, and recommendations to your classmates. In a visually stimulating and creative format, your presentation should include a synthesis of the elements described above.

This presentation will be graded based on the extent to which you:
1. provide a deep, complex, analysis of the issue; and
2. offer a thoughtful, creative and interactive presentation.

III. Self-directed Field Trip To US Holocaust Memorial Museum and Related Assignment-15%
(field trip on Feb 22, assignment due on Feb 28)

You will have the opportunity to demonstrate your learning via a self-directed field trip to the US Holocaust Memorial Museum and related assignment. The assignment instructions will be given on Feb 15 and the self-directed museum field trip will be completed on Feb 22. The assignment should be submitted by Feb 28.

Metro Fare—You are responsible for metro fare for the field trip.

IV. Research Paper-35% (instructions given on Mar 01)
   i. Annotated Bibliography-10% (due on Mar 10)

Based on the topic you choose for your research paper, you will conduct a preliminary research and complete an annotated bibliography that includes at least Five SCHOLARLY sources.

This assignment will be assessed on the quantity and quality of those sources you provide and the quality of your annotation.

   ii. Research Paper-Final Product-25% (due on May 05)

You will analyze in a research paper (around 1500 words) a topic from a list to be distributed. This assignment will be assessed on the extent to which you:
1. offer a clear, concise thesis statement describing the central argument of your essay;
2. provide reason and evidence to support that central argument throughout your essay and address counterarguments;
3. deliver a well-written, organized, and properly-cited essay; and
4. conduct a comprehensive interdisciplinary research and incorporate the literature into your analysis.
V. In-class Open-book Midterm- 20% (Mar 29)

You will have the opportunity to demonstrate your learning via an in-class open-book exercise.

VI. Extra Credit-Learning Reflective Essay-2% (instructions given on Apr 26, due May 06)

For the extra credit, you will complete an essay (one-page, single-spaced), reflecting on the topics and concepts discussed during this learning community and attempting to connect them to some aspect of your current or future life or work. Specific instructions or writing prompts will be provided to you. This is your opportunity to reflect thoughtfully on what we discuss and experience in this learning community. Note, this essay is not meant to be a review of what we did in class or a discussion of what you liked or didn’t like from class. Instead, it’s about finding yourself in the context of the course.

This assignment will be assessed on the extent to which you:
1. draw on course concepts, readings, cases, activities, and discussions to strengthen your argument; and
2. demonstrate an attempt to connect those concepts and ideas to your own life and future work.

Human Rights Organizations

Human Right is not an abstract field of study. One way to understand human rights is to familiarize yourselves with the organizations that work in areas of your interest. The Human Rights Internet Reporter details the work of thousands of groups, and almost all groups can be found on the web. A published copy of the latest Reporter can be obtained by faxing a request to (613) 564-4054.

Policies and Information

All assignments and exams are to be submitted through the blackboard on their respective due dates (USUALLY MIDNIGHT SUNDAY). Assignments and exams submitted late will be reduced one third of a letter grade (e.g. from B to B-) per day (including Saturdays and Sundays). Absolutely no work will be accepted one week after its due date without a valid written medical excuse or notice of death in the family.

All papers must be typed on 8.5” x 11” paper using 12 point Times New Roman font. Additionally, all papers and other assignments should be documented properly in accordance with an accepted citation manual (e.g. The Chicago Manual of Style, The APA Manual of Style, The MLA Style Manual).

Please arrive at class on time. Because the class is built around interaction and dialogue, attendance is critical. So when you miss one class, your grade will be affected. An absence is excused when due to serious illness, religious observance, participation in University activities at the request of University authorities, or compelling circumstances beyond your control. I reserve the right to request evidence when you will be absent for one of these reasons.

When you miss class, it is your responsibility to arrange to make up the day’s work. You must approach me about the absence and inquire about ways of making it up.

Engaged and respectful dialogue is encouraged. Demeaning, intolerant, and/or disruptive behavior or responses at any time will affect your participation grade.

In compliance with a University-wide initiative, I will correspond electronically with students only through their GMU assigned email accounts. Please check your email account regularly for updates and important announcements; checking your email during University closings is especially important as I will alert you to schedule changes via email.

You are welcome to bring a laptop to class and use it for class-related purposes. During class you are asked to refrain from using your laptop for purposes not related to class.

George Mason University has an Honor Code with clear guidelines regarding academic integrity. Three fundamental principles you must follow at all times are: 1) all work submitted must be your own; 2) when using the work or ideas of others, including fellow students, give full credit through accurate citations; and 3) if you are uncertain about citation rules or assignment guidelines, ask me for clarification. No grade is important enough to justify academic misconduct. If you feel unusual pressure or anxiety about your grade in this or any other course, please let me know and also seek help from University resources. The University provides a range of services to help with test anxiety, writing skills, study skills, personal issues, and related concerns.

Diversity Statement

The School of Integrative Studies, an intentionally inclusive community, promotes and maintains an equitable and just work and learning environment. We welcome and value individuals and their differences including race, economic status, gender expression and identity, sex, sexual orientation, ethnicity, national origin, first language, religion, age and disability.

- We value our diverse student body and desire to increase the diversity of our faculty and staff.
- We commit to supporting students, faculty and staff who have been the victims of bias and discrimination.
- We promote continuous learning and improvement to create an environment that values diverse points of view and life experiences.
- We believe that faculty, staff and students play a role in creating an environment that engages diverse points of view.
- We believe that by fostering their willingness to hear and learn from a variety of sources and viewpoints, our students will gain competence in communication, critical thinking and global understanding, aware of their biases and how they affect their interactions with others and the world.
