The world is a dangerous place to live in not because of the people who are evil but because of the people who do not do anything about it.

Communication
GMU policy provides e-mail as the standard means of communication and requires that all email contact be through GMU e-mail accounts. Please email me from your GMU account when you want to meet.

Office Hours and Meetings
I can meet with the students at the Johnson Center before and after the class. Please email me if you have any questions or issues you need to discuss. Also, I can meet with students at Enterprise Hall 3rd Floor CLS Office by appointment as well.

Registration and Enrollment
Please go to https://registrar.gmu.edu/calendars/spring-2019/ for important dates regarding registration and enrollment. You can also go to the Registrar’s office for additional information. The last day for enrolling is January 29, 2019 and the final drop date is February 5, 2019.

Course Description
This course examines the theory and politics of terrorism from an historical and social perspective and international terrorism in terms of national, ethnic, ideological, and religious movements as well as domestic terrorism and homeland security. The focus is on how terrorism is defined, what causes terrorism, how radicalization affects terrorism, how crime and corruption are entangled with terrorism, how media are linked to terrorism, and how gender matters in terrorism.
The course sheds light on salafi-jihadist networks composed of various terrorist groups ranging from al-Qaeda and its affiliates in Maghreb and Yemen, Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS) to Boko Haram and al-Shabaab. In this context, the theoretical and ideological background of Salafism that fuels jihadist groups will be examined.

The course puts into concrete terms how state and terrorism are linked to each other and how countries that sponsor terrorists play a role in the development of terrorist groups. Special attention will be given to Iran in terms of how the Iranian Revolutionary Guards are linked to terrorism in the Middle East and how Iran is exploiting Hezbollah to operate in the Middle East and South America.

Special attention also will be given to the threat of terrorism in the United States and Homeland Security through an analysis of recent terror attacks. The country’s antiterrorism policies will be reviewed through examples from the Department of Homeland Security. The topic for each week will be illustrated with examples of terrorist organizations operating in various regions. Finally, the course will discuss vulnerabilities of counterterrorism strategies and offer recommendations for effective policy models. By the end of the course, students should have the skills needed to establish a baseline for understanding the theory and politics of both domestic and international terrorism.

Required Textbooks:

2- Additional reading materials (articles with links) will be distributed over Blackboard.
3- Additional websites can also be used and discussed to increase student’s knowledge on the subject; This can include, but not limited to well-known media; web sites of well-known think tanks on terror studies.

Course Requirements and Expectations

Critical Reaction Paper (CRP) (8 %)
To help you get your thoughts together for class, you are expected to write ONE-PAGE critical reaction paper (CRP) on Chapter 4. The due date for the CRP is indicated on the course schedule of the syllabus. The statements should be typed, double-spaced, in 12 size, Times New Roman font. These statements should not simply summarize the topic/article/reading. The word "critical" in critical reaction statement does NOT mean that you have to discuss how bad the article/chapter/writing is; it means marked by careful evaluation. You are expected to add your personal opinions (as a reaction) to a sentence, paragraph, and section of a reading or to the piece as a whole. Please include “CRIM475-005 CRP” in the subject heading.

Mid-term Exam (18%) and Final Exam (18%)
These exams will consist of multiple choice, true/false, short answer, and/or short essay questions that are based on assigned readings and class lectures. The mid-term exam will cover Book Chapters from 1-7 and the final exam will be from 8 to 15. Failure to take an exam at its scheduled time will result in a grade of zero (0) being used in the computation of your final grade— exceptions will only made in the case of unforeseeable and acceptable circumstances.

Research Paper (20 %)
I want you to pick any topic on terrorism/counterterrorism or select a terrorist organization from. You are assigned to submit the outline of your research paper by February 25, 2019. Your paper should include two sections (see research assignment instructions for more details). In the first section, your research paper should give information about the history of terrorist organization, its ideology and motivation, geographical area, goals and objectives, strategies and tactics, recruitment strategies, funding, and future plans and goals, etc. In the second section, you write about counterterrorism strategies of national and international stakeholders against the terrorist organization, effectiveness of counterterrorism strategies and policies. You can also add your opinions on the counterterrorism strategies as well. Do not hesitate to contact me and discuss your topics. Please include "CRIM475-005: Research Paper” in the subject heading.

You are expected to meet with the professor to review your draft three weeks before due date.

The research papers should be at most eight (8) pages including references page; typed, double-spaced, in 12 size, Times New Roman font; and be prepared in APA formatting and citations. The paper must include at least five (6) scholarly citations.

 Research papers should be proofread and edited for spelling and grammar errors before submission.

In-class Presentation (8 %):
You should take advantage of this class and use it as an instrument to improve your speaking and presentation skills that will be necessary in any part of criminal justice system, particularly in the policing profession. These presentations will also help you acquire the confidence of speaking in front of the people.
During your presentation, you are free in method/technique, material, setting, style, etc. Each of you will have only ten (10) minutes, not more, not less! So, timing is important. We will have a brief Q & A session where the listeners can ask questions and give constructive feedback to the presenter. I encourage you to use visuals and/or audio-visuals for better and more effective presentations. I expect you to be creative in your class performance!

In-class Activities and Class Participation (14%)

In this class, we will have in-class activities such as think-pair-share-report (TPSR), brainstorming, group discussions, round-table discussions, and/or reading. If it is a group activity, (as being the group members) you are expected to participate in discussions actively, write a concise and precise report, and present at the end. You are expected to run these group projects collectively and collaboratively as a teamwork. Please remember that absence/tardiness directly (and negatively) affects in-class activities, because; if one student is not in the class, then s/he will physically not be able to join the group activities, either.

Since this is also a learner-centered and interactive course, class participation is encouraged. No doubt, classroom discussion is an essential part of the learning process for the benefit of the students. Participation consists of being on time for class, being present in class, and being an active member in discussion sessions.

 You are expected to send the copy of your class notes after each class (1% each).

Free-Write Exercises (%)

During the semester, students will be assigned three in-class writing exercises related to course topics (3% each). You will be expected to answer a question or comment on a topic briefly in 10-15 minutes.

Movie Review (5%)

You are expected to select one movie/documentary that is about terrorism and/or counterterrorism and review it. You can select your own movie/documentary or ask a name from the professor for revision. In this review, you will answer four questions (see the document of movie review questions).

* No assignments will be accepted late without prior consent – exceptions will only be made in the case of unforeseeable and acceptable circumstances (i.e. accidents, family emergencies etc.)

Class Attendance

According to the University Policy, attendance is required. Therefore, attendance will be taken for every class. Please sign in only for your own and current attendance! I consider illness and religious holidays as excused absences. I may ask for a doctor’s note in some cases.

There will be a reduction from the total grading depending on the number of absences. Here is the instructor’s policy on absences:

Meet One-on-One with the Professor

You are suggested to meet with the Professor for 10 minutes within the first three weeks of the course. In these meetings, I want to learn more about your backgrounds, interests, and life goals. Please sign up sheet to schedule your preferred meeting time. Sign-up sheet will be available in the classroom. Please let me know if none of the available tie slots on the sheet works for you.

University Services

If you have a documented learning disability or other condition that may affect your academic performance, you should:

1. Make sure this documentation is on file with the Office of Disability Services (SUB I, Rm. 222; 993-2474; www.gmu.edu/student/drc) to determine the accommodations you need; and
2. Talk with me to discuss your accommodation needs. By GMU policy, instructors cannot make any accommodations for students without certification from ODS on the existence of a disability and the specific accommodations needed.

If you feel you need to improve your writing skills, seek assistance from the University Writing Center (http://writingcenter.gmu.edu/). You will be expected to write academically for this class despite any linguistic deficits you have, so take full advantage of this service to earn good grades.

If you are in personal distress, you can also get help from Counseling and Psychological Services (http://www.gmu.edu/departments/cspc). Class topics may engender anxiety or challenge world views and the counseling services are there to help.

If you are not a native English speaker and may be interested in linguistic and cultural enrichment services, you can contact GMU’s English Language Institute (eli.gmu.edu).

If you would like to improve your study skills or test-taking strategies, you can get help from http://caps.gmu.edu/learningservices.

Honor Code Policy

George Mason University has an Honor Code, which requires all members of this community to maintain the highest standards of academic honesty and integrity. Cheating, plagiarism, lying, and stealing are all prohibited. Please consult the Student Handbook for a full definition of these terms. All violations of the Honor Code will be reported to the Honor Committee.

Violations include, but are not limited to the following:

Cheating includes any “willful giving or receiving of an unauthorized, unfair, dishonest, or unscrupulous advantage in academic work over other students,” by any means whatsoever, or the attempt to do so. Examples: Copying off another student; using notes during a closed-book exam; obtaining an assignment ahead of time from a student who took the class a previous semester; turning in the same work in more than one class (without prior authorization from all professors concerned).

Plagiarism includes “presenting as one’s own the works, the work, or the opinions of someone else without proper acknowledgement” or “borrowing the sequence of ideas, the arrangement of material, or the pattern of thought of someone else without proper acknowledgement.” Examples: getting your paper off the Internet; cutting and pasting paragraphs from other authors into your paper; turning in a paper that was written by somebody else; buying a paper; taking a written piece from someone else but rewording it so that it looks different.

Lying includes “the willful and knowledgeable telling of an untruth, as well as any form of deceit, attempted deceit, or fraud in an oral or written statement relating to academic work.” Examples: lying to faculty member by saying you were sick when you were not; falsely claiming a death in the family or a personal emergency; falsifying any official documentation.

Stealing encompasses “taking or appropriating without the permission to do so, and with the intent to keep or to make use of wrongfully, property belonging to any member of the George Mason University community or any property located on the University campus.” Examples: stealing exams or paper assignments from the professor for the purposes of cheating; selling notes you take in class to an individual or a business.

Bad Weather and Other Emergencies

Call GMU’s closing line at (703) 993-1000 to see if classes are cancelled due to weather. You can also register for Mason’s emergency alert system at https://alert.gmu.edu. If I should have to cancel a class due to a personal emergency, I will make every attempt to e-mail you ASAP at your GMU email address.

Privacy Policy

Please respect the privacy of any students who may disclose personal information in the class. This means we do not gossip about others’ opinions or personal status outside of class, whether or not we agree with their opinions. Please also respect everyone’s right to freely choose whether to disclose or not disclose personal information.
