ARTH 471 Course Information:

3 credit hours. Studies a particular area of American art, focusing on a form, such as landscape or genre painting; theme, such as nationalism, regionalism, or iconography of the family; or movement, such as American modernism. May not be repeated for credit. Recommended prerequisites: ENGL 302/ENGH 302 and 6 credits in Art History at the 300-level. Writing intensive in the major.

ARTH 599 Course Information:

3 credit hours. Special topics in art history and the decorative arts. May be repeated for credit when topic is different. May be repeated within the term.

Description: This course considers the art, politics, and culture of the “interwar” years, defined for the purposes of this course as 1917-1939. At the beginning of this era, many critics believed art in the United States was destined forever to lag behind avant-garde production in Europe; however, by the end of this fruitful twenty-year period, the U. S. boasted a diverse kaleidoscope of artists, movements, and innovations. This course will cover the visual arts, primarily painting, photography, and film, in their social and political contexts to uncover the complexities of “American” identity in these years. The course will explore themes including: avant-garde art movements; regional and folk traditions; race, sexuality, and gender; responses to technology and industry; popular culture and entertainment; and government sponsorship of art.

Course Policies and Procedures

Goals: By participating in this course, students should meet the following goals:

- synthesize information to articulate critical responses to objects and texts
- analyze and evaluate visual images and material culture objects
- develop skills of academic communication, both written and oral
- engage in high-level critical evaluation of secondary scholarly texts
- demonstrate mastery of a specific topic determined by the student’s research

Writing Intensive in the Major: This course fulfills all or in part the writing-intensive requirement for the Art History major. Among other requirements, writing intensive courses are ones in which:

- students revise at least one substantive assignment
- students receive instructor feedback on their writing
- writing assignments count substantially toward final grades
- writings assignments combine to a total of at least 3500 words

Class Communication: The best way to reach me is by email; I usually respond within 48 hours. I will communicate with you using GMU email via the Blackboard system. Please use my cell number only to send text messages in case of last minute absence, missing a scheduled meeting, etc. Do not call or leave voice mails with course-related questions; these are better answered over email.

Required Text: Wanda Corn, The Great American Thing: Modern Art and National Identity, 1915-1935 (Univ. of California Press, 1999). All other readings will be online through the Blackboard site.

Grading for Graduate Students		Grading for Undergraduate Students
Participation	10%	Participation	10%
Weekly Questions	15%	Weekly Questions	15%
Short Papers (2)	30%	Short Papers (3)	45%
Discussion Leader	15%	Final Project	30%
Final Project	30%

Participation: Participation starts at a C (75/100), but when you participate, that will quickly go up. You can use electronics, but please don't text, post on Instagram, stream video, etc.

Weekly Questions: For each class meeting, bring at least 3-4 substantive questions about the readings. Questions could address issues you want to discuss in more detail, disagreed with, or were not sure about. These will be used to start discussion and will be collected at the end of class.

Short Papers: Papers based on specific course topics or activities, about 2-3 double-spaced pages each. Undergrads will write three papers and grad students will write two. Papers due Friday 9/13; Friday 9/27; and Friday 10/11. Use Blackboard to view prompts and submit.

Discussion Leader (Graduate students): You will read an additional text and summarize its main points in a presentation of about 15-20 minutes. You should include a PPT (if you discuss specific images) and a handout for the class with an outline of the reading and 3-4 questions for discussion.

Final Project: The final research project will result in 8-10 pages (2000-2500 words) for undergrads or 12-14 pages (3000-3500 words) for graduate students. You can choose from the following three options. Full instructions are on Blackboard.

- Option 1: Using Omeka.net or another online platform, develop an "exhibit" on a theme of your choice. (Recommended for students who are comfortable using tech tools or are interested in DH.)
- Option 2: Write a profile of an artist, including a bibliographic essay and extended visual analysis of a single artwork.
- Option 3: Traditional research paper on a topic of your choice.

A drafting process involving multiple steps is intended to keep you on track. The individual steps are not graded but are used to provide feedback for revision and improvement. However, for each step you miss, 10 points will be deducted from your project's final grade.

- Paper proposal: Thursday 10/17
- Outline and bibliography: Thursday 10/31
- Rough draft: Thursday 11/14
- Meetings to discuss progress: Thursday 11/21
- Lightning presentations: Thursday 12/5

Late work: Penalized 5 points for each 24 hours past the due date. Extensions will be granted if deemed appropriate when students submit a request in writing at least one week before the due date.

A Note on Attendance: Excused absences include illness, family emergency, and religious observance. Chronic absenteeism without notification will result in the following penalties:

Unexcused Absences	Result
More than 2	Course grade drops by one letter
More than 4	Course grade drops by two letters
More than 6	F for the course

Evaluation: I use the following measurements for final grade calculation:

A+ (98-100)	A (93-97)	A- (90-92)	Clearly stands out as excellent performance
B+ (87-89)	B (83-86)	B- (80-82)	Level of work is good to very good
C+ (77-79)	C (73-76)	C- (70-72)	Level of work is satisfactory to average
D (60-69)			Work is below average and marginally acceptable
F (below 60)			Quality and/or quantity of work is unacceptable

Policies for Submitting Written Work: All assignments except weekly reading questions should be submitted using the Blackboard site and are due by 11:59 PM on the day they are listed. Double-space with standard margins and 12-point font and save in .doc, .docx, or .pdf format.

Academic Honesty: Academic dishonesty constitutes a serious violation of your learning process and your social contract with other students. Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to:

- failure to cite sources for quotations and ideas
- cutting and pasting text from other sources
- passing off another's work as your own
- purchasing or copying a paper found online
- reusing a paper you wrote for another course

I have a zero tolerance policy for academic dishonesty, whether intentional or not. Students who violate standards of academic honesty will earn a zero for the assignment and may risk failing the course or being subject to disciplinary action. More information, including definitions of cheating, lying, and plagiarism, can be found at the Office of Academic Integrity website at oai.gmu.edu.

Resources for Students

Students with Disabilities: Students with disabilities are entitled to request appropriate accommodations. Students should first register with Disability Services and then bring me the provided letter to receive the necessary accommodations. ds.gmu.edu, or call (703) 993-2474.

Help with Writing: If you have struggled with writing in the past, or if English is not your first language, you may want to seek help from the Writing Center. They offer one-on-one tutoring and workshops throughout the semester. Robinson-A, Room 114, or writingcenter.gmu.edu

Emotional and Mental Support: College life is complicated. Students may find it helpful to talk with a professional. Counseling and Psychological Services (CAPS) can help address both personal and academic concerns. Services are free and confidential. SUB I, Room 3129, or caps.gmu.edu

LGBTQ Resources: LGBTQ Resources “works to promote the academic success, health and well-being of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and queer students and their allies.” SUB I, Room 2200, or lgbtq.gmu.edu

Diversity: The Office of Diversity, Inclusion, and Multicultural Education provides support for an inclusive campus, including first-generation and undocumented students. odime.gmu.edu

Bereavement: Students dealing with loss are encouraged to speak with the Dean of Student Academic Life for their College. The Dean's office can help you contact your professors and deal with academic challenges of bereavement. CHSS students contact chssdean@gmu.edu. Contacts for other Colleges are at: registrar.gmu.edu/students/academic-standing/deans-and-directors/
