Course Description: Economic development, institutions, and problems of Latin America.

Course Objectives & Goals:

By the end of the course, students should be familiar with the economic history and institutions of Latin America and key development issues such as the legacy of colonialism, import-substitution-industrialization problems, free-market reforms, and the role of the agricultural sector. The course will approach topics from the perspectives of economic history, current events, and development theory, with an eye toward the institutions and cultural norms specific to Latin America. The course will help students see the world from multiple perspectives, reflect upon their positions in a global society, and be prepared for future engagement as global citizens.

Skill requirements, technology, and prerequisites:

Economics 103 and 104 are prerequisites to the course. Economics majors are advised to complete Econ 306 and Econ 310 before taking this course.

Students must have an email account. Email is the best way to contact your instructor. You must have access to a computer and access to a reliable broadband internet connection. Blackboard 9.1 will be used for this course. You can access the course at https://mymasonportal.gmu.edu Login and click on the “courses” tab. The course is asynchronous – it is NOT a Zoom class. Face-to-face sessions online sessions are optional. You must be able to read and write independently to be successful in this class.

Course Methodology:

The class format will emphasize readings, powerpoint lectures, individual research, Blackboard discussion boards, and eight papers where you will synthesize and apply the concepts covered in the readings and lectures. Students will choose a country, keep up with current events, and do research throughout the course on that country that will be incorporated in the papers.

Required Texts:

This is a “Global Understanding” Core Course: The goal of the global understanding category is to help students see the world from multiple perspectives, reflect upon their positions in a global society, and be prepared for future engagement as global citizens. While it may include historical perspective, global understanding courses focus primarily on contemporary understanding of one's place in a global society.

By developing a thorough grounding in the economic history, institutions, and cultural norms of Latin America, and making comparisons to economic history of the United States, students gain a better understanding of their place in a global society.

Global Understanding Learning Outcomes for this Course:
1. Students will demonstrate understanding of how economic globalization has enhanced both interconnections and differences among and within contemporary global societies.

2. Demonstrate the development of expertise in at least one country in Latin America, and also master the map of the region.

3. Use the analytical approaches in the field of economics to explore how Latin American governments have taken responsibility for economic development within the region.

Honor Code: Mason is an Honor Code university; please see the Office for Academic Integrity (http://oai.gmu.edu/) for a full description of the code and the honor committee process. Academic integrity is taken seriously and violations are treated gravely. What does academic integrity mean in this course? When you are responsible for a task, you will perform that task. When you rely on someone else’s work, you will give full credit in the proper, accepted form.

Disability Accommodations: Students with documented disabilities should contact the Office of Disability Services 703-993-2474 to learn more about accommodations that may be available to them.

Academic Integrity, Inclusivity and Privacy: We all have differing perspectives and ideas and each deserve the opportunity to share our thoughts. Mason values diversity. We will conduct discussions with respect for those differences. (http://oai.gmu.edu/) Please adhere to the rules of “netiquette” http://www.albion.com/netiquette/corerules.html. Mason adheres to student privacy and student rights under FERPA. See https://registrar.gmu.edu/ferpa/.

Religious holidays: If you will expect to miss a due date because of a religious holiday, please notify your instructor. https://ulife.gmu.edu/religious-holiday-calendar/

Student Services: You may find the following services useful: the Writing Center (writingcenter.gmu.edu); Online Education Servives, University Libraries (library.gmu.edu/for/online); Counseling and Psychological Services (caps.gmu.edu).

Grades will be assigned as follows:
A: 93.00-100%   A-: 89.50-92.99%
B+:87.00-89.49%  B:83.00-86.99%  B-:80.00-82.99%
C+:77.00-79.99%  C:73.00-76.99%  C-:70.00-72.99%
D:60.00-69.99%   F:0-59.99%

Country focus and papers: Students must choose a Latin American country to focus on by the 2nd week of class and keep up to date with news on the country, bring in news to report on weekly (13 submissions). Please cite your source with online link. The news reports are worth 13% of your grade.
Students will write 8 short papers for the course varying in length from 300 to 1100 words. Not all of the papers will require research beyond your textbooks and the powerpts. Nevertheless, familiarize yourself with the paper topics from the outset (See Questions for Papers) and begin to locate sources. In particular, find a good history of your country – a book – that covers the economic history of the country. Check out books on Amazon and then locate a likely book in the library. (See Tips for Researching Your Country) The papers together are worth 83% of your grade.

We have 12 Lecture Topics with one powerpoint for each lecture – note that the Lectures do not correspond directly to our 14 weeks of the semester. (Note than Spring Break has returned!)

A few more words on grading:

On the next page is a list of the items that will make up your grade. You will receive a letter grade on each of your papers that corresponds to points out of 100:
A+ 100; A  95; A- 90; B+ 88; B  85; B- 80; C+ 78; C  75; C- 70; D  65; F  55
If you don’t turn in a paper, you receive zero credit.
Papers must be turned in before the end of the day on which they are due. Please don’t turn in papers late or you will be forever running behind. You will lose a letter grade for every day late. If you have extenuating circumstances contact me before the deadline.

News reports should be ideally 2-3 sentences. You will need to create a thread before you can read others news reports, so if you report the same news, it’s OK. You can get either 95, 75, or 0 on your report. If you miss a report one week, you can’t make it up, but it’s just 1% of your grade.

The table on the following page illustrates how your grade will be calculated.
